CANTON HONOURS LEADER

FUNERAL OF GREAT PATRIOT

IMPRESSIVE SCENES

Canton, July 13. The atmosphere of political gravity and tension which has gripped Canton for the last few weeks was transformed into one of complete mourning and solemnity this morning when the state funeral for Mr. Hu Han-min was held.

The most spectacular and impressive procession was witnessed when the remains, which were contained in a richly-worked coffin of sandalwood were conveyed from the Sun Yat-sen Memorial Hall, where they had been lying in state since the death of the patriot on May 12, to Lung Yen-tung Hill, a suburb of Canton, for burial

AEROPLANE ESCORT

With a score of neroplanes as a flying escort, and army artillery firing salutes, the procession, which was attended by all high officials of the Kuomintang and Government, and representatives from Nanking, foreign consuls and guests, started at 8 a.m. and moved slowly behind a vast number of military and other bands.

Rigid precautions were taken against unpleasant incidents and streets through which the procession passed, or will pass, are cleared of traffic. Armed guards are posted along the entire route.

Flags throughout the city are flying at half must and theatres and other public amusements have suspended .-Renter Special. .

London, July 13. A cautious view of the Austro-German rapprochement is taken in diplomatic circles in London, where the opinion is held that while it removes, at least temporarily, one danger spot it would be unwise to be too optimistic. It is felt the agreement does not necessarily imply that German pressure on Austria will cease entirely. It is thought Herr Adolf Hitler may change his method, and exercise pressure from internal rather than external sources.

Despite the Austrian declaration that Nazi propaganda will not be permitted, it is felt that as freedom will be given to many Nazi propagandists they are not likely to remain silent.

It is considered obvious that the rapprochement was known and agreed to in advance by Signor Benito Mussolini, the Italian Dictator, and it is a matter for speculation whether Il Duce may propound a modernised version of the Four Power Pact of 1933, which will recognise the increased influence of Soviet Russia in European affairs.

Austria Guards Independence Against Nazis

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

Vienna, July 12.

Notwithstanding the Austro-German agreement, announced yesterday, the Government of Austria will continue to take strong measures against Nazi propaganda, as it is determined to prevent any political party undermining the state, according to Austrian official circles.

A law for the protection of the state will be introduced shortly, forbidding attempts to endanger, the continued existence of an independent Austria and propaganda in favour of Anschluss, or the Germanisation of the state:

Response Demand for War

NANKING PARLEY FACING BIG ISSUES TO-DAY

Nanking, July 13.

If the dozen or so proposals submitted pass the second General Meeting to-day, the plenary conference of the Central Executive Council is expected to adjourn Tuesday, following the third General Meeting.

The two most important tasks ahead of the Council are to decide upon the fate of the South-west Executive Committee and the South-west Political Council, and the election of a successor to the late Mr. Hu Han-min, famous southern leader.

The South-west's five demands, including that for war against Japan, have been referred to the Committees on Military and Political Affairs. According to earlier reports, it is generally considered that the South-west's demand for war will be refused. It is believed the plenary session may consider the South-west's points today, but the decision will not be known until Tuesday, in all probability.

Act promptly. Give a laxative. But be sure it's the right laxative—a child's laxative, one made especially for children-Castoria!

In millions of American homes Castoria is the first thought when a child has a headache, an upset stomach, or shows the first symptoms of a cold. These mothers know that Castoria is safe, gentle, effective ... that it is exactly suited to a child's delicate system. And children love its taste! Castoria does not contain castor oil.

Get a bottle of Castoria today. Say good-bye forever to strong adult laxatives that gripe your child and upset his digestion. Welcome the ideal laxative—the laxative made especially for children.

Many of the most remarkable scenes were "shot" at Gulu, in Uganda, among the Acholi-a people whose way of living is still as primitive as it has ever been. Luckily the natives possessed a natural histrionic capacity, and the help of thousands of them was secured in realistic scenes depicting the burning and sacking of villages. One man, Aboya, was entrusted with an important part. He has a fine voice-and he is 6-ft. 6-in, in height. The part of District Commissioner Sanders is played by Leslie Banks---a close personal friend of the late Edgar Wallace-while Paul Robeson is the native Bosambo and Nina Mac McKinney, the delightful coloured's variety artist, is his wife Lilongo. Others prominent in the cast are Eric Maturin, the Marquis of Partago, Robert Cochrane, Martin Walker and Alan Jeayes.

Islam and World Peace

To The Editor

Sir,—The failure of the League of Nations to discharge its obligations towards Ethiopia has provoked justified criticism of that body. Various causes have been attributed to the inability of the League to achieve the object it held before it. In my opinion, the failure of this World Peace Movement is due to the efforts of the League to achieve peace most of the mischief springs having been left out. The League, on the whole, we cannot say, has been insincere; in fact the desire to achieve peace was there but the energies were ill-directed. The causes that led to the follure of the League, as a peace executive, may be summed up as under;

1. Nations' unwillingness as a whole to make sacrifices in the interest of universal peace and concord.

LEAGUE REFORM

The question of the reform of people's minds, in view of its failure to prevent Abyssinia being over-run by an aggressor State. It is a problem bristling with difficulties and one on which a great deal more rests than meets the eye on a first glance. Some , people would "reform" the League to the extent of abolishing it so far as Great Britain is concerned, so that she may depend for her security on her "strong right arm." The adoption of this policy, would absolve Britain) from any further consideration of revising the Covenant. But there is a strong feeling in some quarters that, under modern conditions, isolation will not work: Britain must either stay in the League as it is, or take her share in trying to get it reformed. Leaving aside for a moment the many technical difficulties connected with revision there are two main lines of hought. One is to make the League practically universal by "drawing its teeth" and making it purely an organisation for world co-operation. The other is to make it more effective along the lines of collective action - to "sharpen its teeth." Those in favour of the first plan point out that the United States would probably enter the League if Articles 10 and 16 were removed, thus reducing the risk of their being drawn into a sanctions war. The other absentee countries would probably also come into the League, too, and then it would be universal. Its decisions would be purely advisory. Its power would lie almost entirely in its moral force. But—and here is the strongest point of their argument —it would be there for nations to use to settle their disputes by acting as arbitrator. If a nation did not accept its decision, or refused to submit a dispute to it, we would not be any worse off than we are now. To "sharpen the teeth" of the League, on the other would have to be taken as will make sanctions immediately operative in case of aggression. The term "aggression" itself would, perhaps, have to be most carefully defined. Something would also have to be done about the present unanimity rule in voting lat spired the little boy with the tradition of revolution that has always been the backbone of the French labour movement.

As he grew older, he learned to respect the deep sense of justice shown by his mother in the treatment of her children. To-day Leon Blum says," She was the most just person that I ever knew."

He is still so profoundly imbued with her sense of justice that it may be regarded as the final standard by which he judges all issues. As a little boy Leon did not feel quite the same about his father. It is to be noted that although he belonged to an old family of merchants, he steered clear of business all his life.

TIS family was not poor. but Leon was sent first to a school for the children of working-class parents. He distinguished himself by his inattention to work and a tendency to rebellion.

Already two considerations dominated his young mind—the desirability of justice and the realisation that it had to be fought for. Another aspect of the problem, and one probably responsible for his turning ultimately to Socialism, was revealed to him in the playground of the lycee where he was sent after his first school.

He was turning over the pages of Emile Augier's Les Effrontés when he happened upon a scrap of dialogue that arrested his attention. "Money may be inherited," said one of the characters, "Intelligence is not."

From the lycee he went to the -Ecolo Normale, traditional forcinghouse of French culture. The librarian there was Lucien Herr. Young Blum never gave him a second thought - until several years after he had left the college and he met the librarian again.

By that time Blum had secured a technical post in the Supreme Administrative Court, and in his spare time was contributing literary and dramatic criticism to the more advanced reviews. Like many of the young literary men of the time, he was an anarchist. Then he met Lucien Herr in the Champs Elysées, and while they walked and talked for two hours. Blum rejected intellectual anarchy and became a Soci-

Soon he was to meet Jean Jaures, the great leader and ultimately martyr in the cause of peace. The Dreyfus affair was drawing Socialists and Jews closer together. Jaurès seized the opportunity to found a Socialist newspaper, and he sent young Blum out. to collect the funds.

HE 'largest' gift that Blum collected was that ♣ of 50,000 gold frames from Louis Dreyfus, to-day rival newspaper proprietor, wheat king , Afterwards and reactionary. Blum devoted more time to his literary pursuits, although, he never swerved in his allegiance to the Party.

His career in the Supreme Court flourished, and he refused Jaures's repeated urgings to stand for . Parliament. It was not until Jaurès was assassinated on the eve of the war that Blum plunged into active politics. He became political secretary to Marcel Sembat, the Socialist Minister of Public Works, and abandoned the Supreme Court, where he had climbed to the highest rank in the magistrature. Peace came, and with it the threat of party disintegration.

Blum, when he made his first appearance at a national congress. caused a terrific impression. Marcel Cachin, who was to lead the Communist revolt a year later, called for three cheers for the practically unknown speaker,

The time had come for Blum to enter Parliament. He was elected triumphantly in Paris in 1919. He then discovered that he must earn his living, and he was called to the Bar. Again his success was brilliant and immediate.

N at least one occasion he pleaded in a case against Schneider, the great arms maker. There was a fortune awaiting him at the Barif he abandoned politics.

He ignored the fortune and began a great battle against. nationalism and militarism, thepost-war idols of reactionary Europe: Three years later he denounced the French occupation of the Ruhr. The rest of France was. applauding it. At the Unity Congress of the Labour and Socialist International in Hamburg he expressed his sympathy with the Ruhr workers for the occupation of their territory.

From then on he was the target for the hatred of the French Conservatives. When the economic . . crisis begot Fascism in France, he was designated as its prime enemy. The same writers who incited Raoul Villain to assassinate Jaurès were fomenting the murder of Blum. The attack came at last outside the Chamber of Deputies, when a group of workmen rescued the Socialist leader from the hands of the homicidal mob.

TO Frenchman is indifferent to Blum. His cour-age and brilliance forbid it. He is hated and idolised. His enemies call him "The Red Pope." They mock his weak voice, wispy moustache and unstable pince-nez - because there is nothing else about him that they can mock. He ignores and infuriates them.

Although his voice is reedy and his gestures on the rostrum may seem ineffectual, he is the most powerful debuter in Parliament. He. can hold the unwavering attention of a hostile House more steadily than any orator since Briand at his Floodlighting has been somewhat |----marred in the past by the fact that it has been impossible to throw the FAR EAST AVIATION floodlit object into clear relief without also lighting some of the surrounding objects.

The system invented by Mr. Mar-tin is already employed in Hongkong, a "Stelmar, Headlamp," as the new invention is called, being employed to pick out the clock at the lower Peak Tram Station with a perfect circle of light.

The syr em was successfully tried out, how ver, long before it commercially came to Hongkong. During the recent floodlighting of London a 900-watt projector of Martin's design was set up on Admiralty Arch and used to illuminate Nelson's Statue in the central of Trafalgar Square. As can be seen from the photograph reproduced on this page, the effect was a striking one.

BIC TESTS FOR RECREIO

"B" AND "C" TEAMS ARE INVOLVED

CHAMPIONSHIPS IN THE BALANCE

(By "Veritas")

If one excepts the importance of to-day's mixed doubles match between U.S.R.C., and C.R.C., the tit-bits of this week's tennis league programme are the fixtures of the Recreio in the "B" and "C" Divisions.

It is possible that by Saturday | - " . next, Recreio will either have anade certain of winning, or certain of losing, the championships of these divisions.

To-morrow, for instance, the "C" team meets Kowloon Indian Tennis Club in a re-arranged fixture. Both are undefeated at the present with the . cause them any serious loss of sleep, a On the face of it Recreio's chammonship hopes are concentrated on "the outcome of Friday's match. In fact the championship is grartically cectain to be settled by this en-

If Chinese Recreation Club win there will be nothing to stop them from regaining the title which they lost to Bouth China last summer, but if Rocreio, who have three well-balanced mairs, can come out on top, their prospects of lifting the championship for the third time in the history of the club, are extremely rosy.

Recreio first won the "B" Division in 1917, the second year of its inception, and repeated the achievement in 1921, since when Chinese Recreation Club has dominated. Only two other clubs have won the shield since then, I.R.C. in 1922 and South China, A.A. last year, C.R.C. won outright the original trophy presented by Dr. R. H. Forsyth and in 1929 put up a shield thomselves which they proceeded to win until 1935.

Reorgio feel, and not without reason. that they have the best chances of all the beams to lift the "C" Division title. They have never accomplished this before, C.R.C., Chinese Y.M.C.A., and South China A.A. being the holders up

The nearest Recreio went to winning this division was in 1931 when they, earned a play-off with Chinese Recreation Club. But they were completely outplayed in this match.

TO-DAY'S MATCH

A considerable amount of interest in to day's mixed doubles match between U.S.R.C., and C.R.C. has been lost in consequence of the departure for England of Mra. F. J. Kayli, former singles champion of the Colony, and the absence from the Colony of Mrs. Dowling, one of the best lady doubles players in Hongkong.

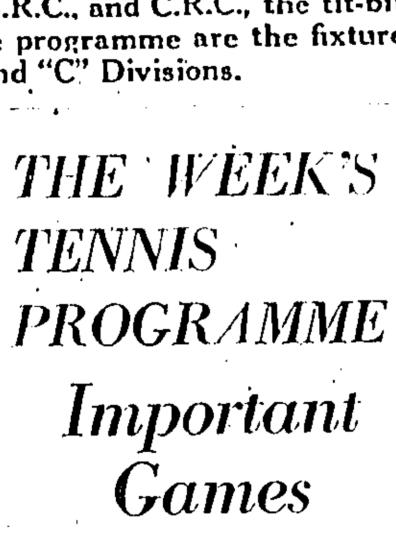

These circumstances have materially weakened the United Services who, at the beginning of the season, were generally regarded as potential chamnions. As things are now C.R.C. apnear to have the title in their pockets unless U.S.R.C. can produce some alrong lady players to take the places of Mrs. Kayll and Mrs. Dowling. (By "Watchman.")

On a recent wet day, when cricket seemed to belong to a better world and we were forced to talk of it because we could not watch it, I was concerned in a conversation about our young players and the approaching tour in Australia, Gimblett's name was mentioned—it generally enters now whenever cricket is discussed-and somebody said, "I hope they won't send him out there this time. He hasn't had enough experience. Those Australian bowlers would be too clever for him, and if he were a bad failure it would probably break his heart. More experiencethat's what he wants."

AUSTRIA-The Key to

EUROPE'S

AST month Austria's Fascist firebrand, Prince Starhemberg, was Vice-Chancellor and Supreme Leader of the Patriotic Front. This month all that has remained of his glory are the positions of Sports Lender and protector of the Mothers' Welfare Work.

Great buccancers have fallen in the past, but rarely has a "strong man" been so noisclessly eliminated. People all over the world are trying to guess the secret that lies behind the swift and dramatic change in Austria.

The decline of the Fascist Heimwehr is a mirror of Mussolini's weakened position.

ASCISM meeds three - clever slogans, lots of money. The Austrian Helmwehr had lost them all.

Their rank and file consisted largely of job-hunters who were disappointed in their hopes. Those few positions which were to be had in impoverished Austria went to the leaders, who grew too comfortable and too lazy.

Their slogans lost their force when the Helmwehr had become part of the ruling regime, when they had to defend instead of attacking.

But they were still a formidable power as long as they had the financial backing of Mussolini. The end came when the money that was to have paid for the upof Mussolini's Austrian henchmen went to make mustard gas to kill Abyssinians.

N May 1st the Helmwehr I was unable to pay the salaries of its own secretaries. A fortnight later Starhemberg was out of power.

The Austrian Socialists two years ago held out for three days against the forces of a modern army. The Austrian Nazis in their coup d'état put up a desperate fight in some parts of the country. But the Austrian Helmwehr was turned out of office without a single shot.

They have missed their chance, If they try a coup d'état later their own discouraged followers will fail them. In fact, it is their enemies who hope they will try.

The Helmwehr representatives who have been retained in the Cabinet do not count. As one of Schuschnigg's men explained to me: "In six months' time they will pop out of the Cabinet like birds out of a cage.".

To understand Austria it should always be remembered that the Austrian population is divided into three roughly equal parts.

A third is Socialist, a third is Nazi, the remaining third includes Chancellor-Schuschnigg's-Christ-ian Socialists as well as the Helmwehr.

This position was not fundamentally changed when the Socialist Party and the Nazi Party were forbidden. These parties were driven underground but continued to exist.

URING the next few months Chancellor Schuschnigg and the Christian Socialists will dominate the Government and the official political organisation, the "Patriotle Front."

The big men of the regime will be: Colonel Adam, until now secretary of the Patriotic Front, who will continue to shape its policy; Herr Reither, provincial governor of Lower Austria, who leads the farmers; and Herr Ender, a former Chancellor.

Their aim is to enlarge the narrow basis of the Government. This, however, can be done in two ways: by an agreement with the Nazis, or by an agreement with the Socialists.

A Habsburg restoration would not produce this effect. It would not enlarge the basis of the Government but further narrow it down by alienating some of its supporters. Desides, it would create new difficulties abroad.

Therefore, the chances of a Habsburg restoration are small though Schuschnigg and most of his friends are monarchists.

HE Austrian Nazls three months ago were just beginning to break up and get disorganised. Hitler's occupation of the Rhineland gave them new life and hope. The failure of the League to act promptly in the Abyssinian dispute was a further help to them.

This, they said, was the dress rehearsal for what would happen after Hitler's occupation of Austria: the League would act ineffectively or not at all. Now Schuschnigg's immediate -circle of friends-includes-the chiefmen on the permanent staff of the Austrian Chancellery. Some of them are in favour of winning the friendship and support of the Nazis. They propose including in the Cabinet one or two men who, while not Nazis themselves, are liked by the Nazis and on good terms with Hitler's Germany.

One such man is Herr Srbik, a. professor of history at the University of Vienna. On the eve of Starhemberg's dismissal. Chancellor Schuschnigg had a long conversation with Herr Srbik.

TN the end the only Minister who was in--chided lit the new Cabinet for the sake of impressing the Nazis was Herr Zernatto, a poet, who was made Under-Secretary, and at the same time secretary of the Patriotic Front.

Herr Zernatto deserves to be watched closely. He may become the thin end of a Nazi wedge in the Austrian Cabinet:

The Socialists have actively developed their secret organisations. They gained new prestige by the courageous stand of their leaders in the Vienna trial.

They have successfully permeated the new Government trade unions and some of the Government militia organisations.

As long as the memory of the bombardment of the Vienna tenement houses remains, Herr Schuschnigg cannot win the friendship of the Austrian workers. But he could win their toleration, and their support against the

To do this he would not necessgrily have to restore complete parliamentary democracy. It would be sufficient to release the imprisoned Socialists, to permit Whenever Great Britain and France show an active interest in Central European affairs, the Austrian Socialists gather strength. They are the only Party which supports the League.

When the democratic Powers leave Central European affairs in the hands of Mussolini, or of Hitler, the influence of the Austrian Fascists or of the Nazis shows a corresponding rise. Schuschnigg's Christian-Socialthe Socialist workers and the Christian Socialist farmers would range Austria in the line of the democratle States of Europe.

It might make the democratic group sufficiently strong to discourage Hitler or Mussolini from attacking it.

Washington, July 1. Jean Trowbridge, a thirteenyear-old schoolgirl, has won a "world's spelling championship" at a contest held in Washington. She was twice disqualified by the judges, but she proved from dictionaries that her spelling of the words in dispute was as good as theirs. Jean was declared "out" because she spelled "char"-a woman who casual housework-"chare." After a protest the judges accepted her spelling,

She was again disqualified for leaving out the "b" in numbskull, but after reference to dictionaries she was readmitted to the contest.

She won the championship when her nearest rival—a boy—put an "e" instead of an "!" into the middle of the word predilection, and when he spelled eczema "ezcema."-Reuter.

standard for measurement was a prediction made at the Incorporated Society of Inspectors of Weights and Measures Congress in the County Hall last month.

Mr. R. J. Trump, Controller of the Standards Department of the Board of Trade, advanced this length-by-wave-length theory and emphasised that there was nothing inherent in the units of weight and length that necessitated their being represented by arbitrary material standards.

"The adoption of some invariable natural standard," he observed, "obviously has its advantages. Recent developments have shown that as regards length at least such a natural standard is now probably available.

IMPRESSIVE SCENES

Canton, July 13. ·Ilhe atmosphere of political gravity and tension which has gripped Canton for the last few weeks was transformed into one complete mourning and solemnity this morning when the state funeral for Mr. Hu Han-min was held.

The most spectacular and impressive procession was witnessed when the remains, which were contained in a richly-worked coffin of sandalwood, were conveyed from the Sun Yat-sen Memorial Hall, where they had been lying in state since the death of the patriot on May 12, to Lung Yen-tung Hill, a suburb of Canton, for burial

With a score of aeroplanes as a flying escort, and army artillery firing salutes, the procession, which was attended by all high officials of the Kuomintang and Government, and reber of military and other bands.

Rigid precautions were taken against unpleasant incidents and streets through which the procession passed, or will pass, are cleared of traffic. Armed guards are posted along the entire route.

COMBINATION INTERFERENCE (SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

一拜禮 號三十月七英港香

Vienna, July 12. Austria will not enter any warlike combination of states, despite the new German entente, declared Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, the Austrian Chancellor and Dictator, in an exclusive statement to the United Press to-day.

Austria will remain entirely independent and peaceful, but will take into account the common ties of language and mutual interests uniting the Austrian and German peoples.

Regarding the restoration of the Hapsburgs to throne of Austria. he said this idea had not been abandoned. "It remains just where it was," the Chancellor added.

Dr. Schuschnigg pointed out that Germany had promised not to interfere in any of Austria's internal affairs, and he said that a restoration would only be attained by plebiscite, and consummated without force. At present, however, a plebiscite on this matter might endanger European peace due to certain Little. Entente powers being opposed to the Hapsburgs' return.—United Press.

Notwithstanding the Austro-German agreement, announced yesterday, the Government of Austria will continue to take strong measures against Nazi propaganda, as it is determined to prevent any political party undermining the state, according to Austrian official circles.

A law for the protection of the state will be introduced shortly, forbidding attempts to endanger, the continued existence of an independent Austria and propaganda in favour of Anschluss, or the Germanisation of the state.

Moreover, the Austrian Government does not intend to allow the country's internal development to be modified by Nazi ideology with regard to such matters as racial questions.—Reuter Special.

WOMAN WOUNDED SERIOUSLY

KENNEDY RD. TRAGEDY

A tragedy was enacted in a house in Kennedy Road early this morning, resulting in the death of a well-known Chinese gentleman, Mr. Ng. Yun-tong, aged about 26 years, from the effects of stabbing, and severe stab wounds to a young woman, Cheung Yee-lau, concubine of a well-known resident. There were no eye-witnesses of the affair.

Both victims were removed to the Government Civil Hospital immedintely the tragedy was discovered. The man died of his injuries at about to be progressing, and is expected to recover. When admitted to hospital, the man was suffering from a severe and deep stab wound in the abdomen, and other injuries. The woman had a stab wound on the back and on her

The first-intimation the servants in the house received that something was wrong was when they heard groans coming from Cheung Yee-Inu's bedroom. One report states that one of the servants actually saw her mistress run out of the room with blood streaming from her body. Another account states that on entering the room the servants found her lying on the bed, dressed as she had been when she retired for the night, and-bleeding-profusely-from-wounds in her back. The man was found lying on the floor near the bed, also badly injured. A long bladed knife resembling a table knife, was found lying beside the man. The knife, it is stated, did not belong to the house. Immediately the discovery was made, the police were informed, and Mr. T. Murphy, Assistant Superintendent of Police, Mr. J. Murphy, reaching an agreement with Austria | Murphy, Detective-Inspector, and Mr. recognizing the latter's independence O'Donovan, proceeded to the scene

The injured man was not operated on at the hospital, as his condition was considered too grave, and passed away some hours later. The woman was operated on and is reported to be progressing satisfactorily.

CORRESPONDENCE

To The Editor

Hongkong Telegraph Sir,-The failure of the League of Nations to discharge its obligations towards Ethlopia has provoked justified criticism of that body. Various causes have been attributed to the inability of the League to achieve the object it held before it. In my opinion, the failure of this World Peace Movement is due to the efforts of the League being confined to the narrow sphere of diplomacy, the source whence most of the mischief springs having been left out. The League, on the whole we cannot say, has been insincere; in fact the desire to achieve peace was there but the energies were illdirected. The causes that led to the failure of the League, as a peace executive, may be summed up as under:

1. Nations' unwillingness as a whole to make sacrifices in the interest of universal peace and concord.

2. Individual nations insist on the inviolability of treaties entered into by them with individual nations and are not prepared to relinquish some share, subject to deduction of special privileges and advantages so enjoyed, in favour of a common agreement aiming at international

ARBITRATION AWARD DISPUTE

MATTER BEFORE THE . APPEAL - COURT BUILDING . CONTRACT SEQUEL

An appeal and cross-appeal against the decision of Mr. Justico R. E. Lindsell, in connection with an award by arbitration, were brought before the Full Court this morning by the Sze Tung & Co. and Li Yik-yin res-

The appeal arose from an award by Messrs. Chau and Lee, architects and arbitrators for both parties, giving damages to Li for delay in work on a building contract. The appellants were not satisfied and came before Mr. Justice Lindsell who, however, upheld the arbitration. They now asked the Court to reverse the deci-

The cross-appeal was that so much of the decision of Mr. Justice Lindsell as related to the implied authority given to the arbitrators by the appellants to award damages, etc., should be varied, namely that the appellants impliedly authorised the arbitrators to award damages for delay and that inasmuch as no objection to the arbitrators' jurisdiction was taken by the appellants on or before the arbitration, they waived their rights (if any) in respect thereof. The trial judges were the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, and Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, Acting Puisno Judge.

Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. C. E. R. Sanderson, of Messra, Russ & Co., appeared for the Sze Tung & Co., while Li Yik-yin was represented Mr. Leo D'Almada, jnr., instructed by Mr. G. S. Hugh-Jones, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist. PREVIOUS LITICATION

Mr. Macaamara said the proceedings arose out of a building contract made in 1932. It had already given rise to a certain amount of litigation which had fortunately been terminated, and the only question now remained was the award made by the architects, purporting to be under Clause 4 of the contract. The point which he asked the Court to rule in his favour was that the dispute which was settled by arbitration did not come under the provisions of the

Counsel then read the clause which stated: "The architects shall be the absolute judges as to the quality and sufficiency of all materials and workmanship and of the adequacy of the number of workmen employed on the work, as to the value of the work executed and materials, supplied and as to the true intent and meaning of this specification. In those and in all other respects; they shall act as ambitrators between the parties of this contract and their decision shall be final and without appeal."

Continuing, Counsel said that what the particular dispute was could be discovered from a letter written by Messis. Wilkinson and Grist to Messas, Chau and Lee, in which it was mentioned that damages should be awarded in the delay in constructing a building at Kowloon Inland Lot No.

He was not going to argue that that c'ause applied to the whole contrait, but what he wanted to stress was that before it could be invoked t ... Court must have a genuine dispute as to the meaning of the contract

Counsel then directed the attention of the Court to Clause 15 of the contract, which stated: "The whole works shall be completed to the entisfaction of the architects on or before March 2, 1933 with an allowthe lance for rainy weather to be made by contractor shall forfeit a sum of $20 a day for every day the work is delayed or not completed beyond the above mentioned period, which sum the said principal may, with the concurrence of the architects, deduct from monles in hand, not as a penalty but as liquidated and agreed

HOW MANY DAYS?

Both parties agreed to the terms of the contract, and the only difference was how many days had expired after the date for the completion of the building. This, however, was not a dispute which could come under the provisions of the arbitration clause and therefore the arbitrators had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter. Mr. D'Almada said that so long as there was reference to arbitration it was well within the powers of the arbitrators to deal with the facts relevant to the dispute. If there were in fact no dispute as to the meaning of Clause 15, there was at least the position in which the inherent in the units of weight and | parties had been at variance for some time upon matters generally. Counsel said that if in fact under clause 4 of the contract the arbitrators had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter, nevertheless they were impliedly authorised to do so by both

Whore the learned trial judge went wrong was in holding that this was a waiver solely and not a question of implied authority. Counsel submitted that the objection to the arbitrators' jurisdiction should have been taken at the arbitration and not after, and could not therefore be argued at this MATTER OF TIME

The question of the reform of the League of Nations is in many people's minds, in view of its failure to prevent Abyssinia being over-run, by an aggressor State. It is a problem bristling with dlfficulties and one on which a great deal more rests than meets the eye on a first glance. Some, people would "reform" the League to the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra extent of abolishing it so far as Great Britain is concerned, so that she may depend for her security London Palladium Orchestra on her "strong right arm." The adoption of this policy would absolve Britain from any further consideration of revising the Covenant. But there is a strong feeling in some quarters that, under modern conditions, isolation will not work: Britain must either stay in the League as it is, or take her share in trying to get it reformed. Leaving aside for a moment the many technical difficulties connected with revision there—are—two—main—lines—of: thought. One is to make the League practically universal by "drawing its teeth" and making it purely an organisation for world co-operation. The other is to make it more effective along the lines of collective action — to "sharpen its teeth." Those in favour of the first plan point out that the United States would probably enter the League if Articles 10 and 16 were removed, thus reducing the risk of their being drawn into a sanctions war. The other absentee countries' would probably also come into the League, too, and then it would be universal. Its decisions would be purely advisory. Its power would lie almost entirely in its moral force. But—and here is the strongest point of their argument -it would be there for nations to use to settle their disputes by acting as arbitrator. If a nation did not accept its decision, or refused to submit a dispute to it, we would not be any worse off than we are now. To "sharpen 'teeth" of the League, on the other hand, many alterations would have to be made. Such steps would have to be taken as will make sanctions immediately operative in case of aggression. The

(He will have to raise the prestige of the French Premiership if in future it is to be a temptation in itself to men of his intellectual calibre.)

No. Blum's ambition was, and is, to be the French Premier who really improved the lot of the people, although he took office at one of the most critical moments in the history of the Third Republic.

It is a fearsome ambition, and when the new Premier wants to escape it for a few hours, he finds sanctuary at home on the little island in the Seine where people still speak of "going to Paris," although the city surrounds them.

HERE he looks down from the tall windows of his 17th century oak panelled apartment, through the embankment trees, at the barges. No doubt he remembers that hearly seven centuries ago Louis IX, another great crusader, after whom this island was named, set out from this spot, where he, too, had sought refuge for meditation;

Blum might easily have gone through life a dreamer and a poet but for two women and a man. His contact with these three made him what he is. They were his mother, his grandmother and Lucien Herr, a college librarian. This is the story of how they came into his life. Leon Blum was born in Paris two years after the Franco-Prussian War that drove the last of his family out of Alsace, where they were established as merchants,

His widowed grandmother, who must have been a very remarkable. old lady, kept a small bookshop behind the law courts and sometimes looked after little Leon.

She had been a firm Republican under the Second Empire, and her sympathy for the defenders of the Commune had carned her the scorn of her more prosperous relatives, who called her the "Communarde,"

It was not altogether surprising, therefore, that the first book she gave Leon to read was a treatise on revolution. The Communarde in-

He is still so profoundly imbued with her sense of justice that it may be regarded as the final standard by which he judges all issues. As a little boy Leon did not feel quite the same about his

Aiready two considerations dominated his young mind—the desirability of justice and the realisation that it had to be fought for. Another aspect of the problem, and one probably responsible for his turning ultimately to Socialism, was revealed to him in the playground of the lycée where he was sent after his first school.

He was turning over the pages of Emile Augier's Les Effrontes when he happened upon a scrap of dialogue that arrested his attention. "Money may be inherited," said one of the characters, "Intelligence is not."

From the lycee he went to the Ecole Normale, traditional forcinghouse of French culture. The librarian there was Lucien Herr. Young Blum never gave him a second thought --- until several _years_after_he-had_left_the_college and he met the librarian again. By that time Blum had secured a technical post in the Supreme Administrative Court, and in his spare time was contributing literary and dramatic criticism to the more advanced reviews. Like many of the young literary

men of the time, he was an anarchist. Then he met Lucien Herr in the Champs Elysées, and while they walked and talked for two hours, Blum rejected intellectual anarchy and became a Soci-

Soon he was to meet Jean Jaurès, the great leader and ultimately martyr in the cause of peace. The Dreyfus affair was drawing Socialists and Jews closer together. Jaures seized the opportunity to found a Socialist newspaper, and he sent young Blum out to collect the funds,

THE largest gift that Blum collected was that of 50,000 gold francs from Louis Dreyfus, to-day rival newspaper proprietor, wheat king and reactionary. Afterwards Blum devoted more time to his literary pursults, although he never swerved in his allegiance to the Party,

His career in the Supreme Court nourished, and he refused Jaures's repeated urgings to stand for Parliament. It was not until Jaurès was assassinated on the eve of the war that Blum plunged into active politics. He became political secretary to Marcel Sembat, the Socialist Minister of Public Works, and abandoned the Supreme Court, where he had climbed to the highest rank in the magistrature. Peace came, and with it the threat of party disintegration.

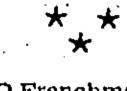

Blum, when he made his first appearance at a national congress, caused a terrific impression. Marcel Cachin, who was to lead the Communist revolt a year later, called for three cheers for the practically unknown speaker.

The time had come for Blum to enter Parliament. He was elected triumphantly in Paris in 1919. He then discovered that he must earn his living, and he was called to the Bar. Again his success was brilliant and immediate.

N at least one occasion ___]ho__pleadod_in_a_case against Schneider, the great arms maker. There was a fortune awaiting him at the Bar if he abandoned politics.

He ignored the fortune and began a great battle against nationalism and militarism, the post-war idols of reactionary Europe. Three years later he denounced the French occupation of the Ruhr. The rest of France was applauding it. At the Unity Congress of the Labour and Socialist International in Hamburg he expressed his sympathy with the Ruhr workers for the occupation of their territory.

From then on he was the target for the hatred of the French Conservatives. When the economic crisis begot Fascism in France, he was designated as its prime enemy. The same writers who incited Raoul Villain to assassinate Jaures were fomenting the murder of Blum. The attack came at last outside the Chamber of Deputies. when a group of workmen rescued the Socialist leader from the hands of the homicidal mob.

TO Frenchman is indifferent to Blum. His courage and brilliance forbld it. He is hated and idolised. His enemies call him "The Red Pope." They mock his weak voice, wispy moustache and unstable pince-nez - because there is nothing else about him that they can mock. He ignores and infuriates them.

Although his voice is ready and his gestures on the rostrum may seem ineffectual, he is the most powerful debater in Parliament. He can hold the unwavering attention of a hostile House more stendily than any orator since Briand at his

ADVENTURES' END ANDREW SWAN'S DEATH

Auckland, N.Z., July 1. Many will remember the book, "The Remarkable Story of Andrew Swan," published in 1932-33, telling the life story of a happy old man who wandered, footloose, over the face of the earth for 44 years.

The subject of this biography passed to his long rest recently in Auckland Hospital.

Andrew Swan, better known to his acquaintances as Thomas Hamilton, returned to New Zealand, which he first reached some 35; years ago after shipwreck, but a few weeks ago. He entered the Sailors' Home, but illness necessitated his removal to hospital, where he died.

In 1887 he sailed in the barque "Elm" from Newcastle. She was defined. Something would also burned at sea, and he, with four unanimity, rule in voting lab others, landed on an island, where they remained two years before rescued by a Portuguese ship which landed him at Auckland.

Flaxcutting, diving, and other pursuits occupied him while in New Zealand, and he paid another visit in 1903, when he claimed to have discovered £2,137 worth of ambergris in less than six months, one period of a week nething him £750. His philosophy may be summarized in his own words, "Adventures can be had for the asking if you go to the right place for them." Farewell, old nomad, you have now experienced the last great adven-

BIG TESTS FOR RECREIO

"B" AND "C" TEAMS ARE INVOLVED

CHAMPIONSHIPS IN THE BALANCE

(By "Veritas")

If one excepts the importance of to-day's mixed doubles match between U.S.R.C., and C.R.C., the tit-bits of this week's tennis league programme are the fixtures of the Recreio in the "B" and "C" Divisions.

It is possible that by Saturday) next, Recreio will either have made certain of winning, or THE WEEK'S certain of losing, the championships of these divisions,

To-morrow, 'for instance, the "C" team meets Kowloon Indian Tennis Club in a re-arranged fixture. Both are undefeated at the present with the K.I.T.C. enjoying divisional leadership on the strength of acts average. On Thursday the Portuguese play South China, another as yet ambeaten sode in the "C" Division.

If Recreio can win these two matches the championship is theirs. TWO VITAL MATCHES

The "B" team also have two very vital matches, during the next dive days. If Chinese Recreation Club win there will be nothing to stop them from regalning the title which they lost to South China last summer, but it Rocreio, who have three well-balanced gairs, can come out on top, their prospects of lifting the championship for the third time in the history of the club, are extremely rosy.

Recreio first won the "B" Division in 1917, the second year of its inception, and repeated the achievement in 1021, since when Chinose Recruation Chibring dominated. Only two other clubs have won the shield since then, I.R.C. in 1922 and South China A.A. last year. C.R.C. won outright the Forsyth and in 1929 put up a shield Chomselves which they proceeded to who until 1935.

Recruic feel, and not without reason, that they have the best chances of all the teams to lift the "C" Division title. They have never accomplished this before, C.R.C., Chinese Y.M.C.A., and South China A.A. being the holders up

The nearest Recreio went to winning this division was In 1931 when they carned a play-off with Chinese Recreation Club. But they were completely outplayed in this match.

TO-DAY'S MATCH

A considerable amount of interest in to day's mixed doubles match between U.S.R.C., and C.R.C. has been lost in consequence of the departure for England of Mrs. F. J. Kayli, former singles champion of the Colony, and the absence from the Colony of Mrs. Bowling, one of the best lady doubles

These circumstances have materially weakened the United Services who, at the beginning of the season, were generally regarded as potential champions. As things are now C.R.C. appear to have the title in their pockets, thiless U.S.R.C. can produce some strong lady players to take the places of Mrs. Kayll and Mrs. Dowling. New Timing Device Fixed

PERFECT TIMING OF RACES

A novel device consisting of two film cameras, and a chronometer coupled with a starter's pistol will ensure absolutely correct timing for the contests at the Berlin Olympic Games.

The new apparatus has been constructed by the Physicotechnical Reichs Institute in 'co-operation with the Zelss-Ikon-Agfa photographic concern and has been thoroughly tested before being accepted by the Olympic Games authorities.

The scenes at the finish of each race will be clearly visible on a film, which will show even the most minute details plastically, while an electric clock synchronised with the film willshow to the fraction of a second the exact time when the winning athlete touches the tupe at the finishing

The new apparatus will be greatly appreciated by competitors as well as judges, since even at the last Olympic Games, pictures taken of some of the events showed certain divergencies.

Dangerous Parrot Cry Is A Cricket Fallacy

(By "Watchman.")

EUROPE'S

AST month Austria's Fascist firebrand, Prince Starhemberg, was Vice-Chancellor and Supreme Leader of the Patriotic Front. This month all that has remained of his glory are the positions of Sports Leader and protector of the Mothers' Welfare Work. Great buccaneers have fallen in the past, but rarely has a "strong man" been so noiselessly eliminated. People all over the world are trying to guess the secret that lies behind the swift and dramatic change in Austria.

The decline of the Fuscist Heimwehr is a mirror of Mussolini's weakened position.

🐣 clever slogans, lots of money. The Austrian Helmwehr had lost them all.

Their rank and file consisted largely of job-hunters who were disappointed in their hopes. Those few positions which were to be had in impoverished Austria went to the leaders, who grew too comfortable and too lazy.

Their slogans lost their force when the Helmwehr had become part of the ruling regime, when they had to defend instead of attacking.

But they were still a formidable power as long as they had the financial backing of Mussolini, The end came when the money that was to have paid for the upkeep of Mussolini's Austrian henchmen went to make mustard gas to kill Abyssinians, N May 1st the Helmwehr was unable to pay the salaries of its own secretaries. A fortnight later Starhemberg was out of power.

The Austrian Socialists two years ago held out for three days against the forces of a modern army. The Austrian Nazis in their coup d'état put up a desperate fight in some parts of the country. But the Austrian Heimwehr was turned out of office without a single shot.

They have missed their chance. If they try a coup d'état later their own discouraged followers will fall them. In fact, it is their enemies who hope they will try.

The Helmwehr representatives who have been retained in the Cabinet do not count. As one of Schuschnigg's men explained to me: "In six months' time they will pop out of the Cabinet like birds out of a cage."

To understand Austria it should always be remembered that the Austrian population is divided into three roughly equal parts. A third is Socialist, a third is

Nazi, the remaining third includes Chancellor Schuschnigg's .Chflst-Jan Socialists as well as the Heimwehr.

This position was not fundamentally changed when the Socialist Party and the Nazi Party

were forbidden. These parties were driven underground but continued

Friedrich

SCHEU

The blg men of the regime will be: Colonel Adam, until now secretary of the Patriotic Front, who will continue to shape its policy: Herr Relther, provincial governor of Lower Austria, who leads the farmers; and Herr Ender, a former Chancellor.

Their aim is to enlarge the narrow basis of the Government, This, however, can be done in two ways: by an agreement with the Nazis, or by an agreement with the

A Habsburg restoration would not produce this effect. It would not enlarge the basis of the Covernment but further narrow it down by alienating some of its supporters. Besides, it would create new difficulties abroad.

Therefore, the chances of a Habsburg restoration are small, though Schuschnigg and most of his friends are monarchists.

FIGURE Austrian Nazls three months ago were just beginning to break up and get, disorganised. Hitler's occupation of the Rhineland gave them new life and hope.

The failure of the League to act promptly in the Abyssinian dispute was a further help to them. This, they said, was the dress rehearsal for what would happen after Hitler's occupation of Austria: the League would act ineffectively or not at all. Now Schuschnigg's immediate circle of friends includes the chief men on the permanent staff of the Austrian Chancellery.

Some of them are in favour of winning the friendship and support of the Nazis. They propose including in the Cabinet one or two men who, while not Nazis themselves, are liked by the Nazis and on good terms with Hitler's Germany.

One such man is Herr Srbik, a professor of history at the University of Vienna. On the eve of Starhemberg's dismissal, Chancellor Schuschnigg had a long conversation with Herr Srbik.

TN the end the only Minister who was in-"didded in the new Cabinet for the sake of impressing the Nazls was Herr Zernatto, a poet, who was made Under-Secretary, and at the same time secretary of the Patriotic Front.

Herr Zernatto deserves to be watched closely. He may become the thin end of a Nazi wedge in the Austrian Cabinet.

The Socialists have actively developed their secret organisations. They gained new prestige by the courageous stand of their leaders in the Vienna trial. They have successfully permeated the new Government trade unions and some of the Government militin organisations,

As long as the memory of the bombardment of the Vienna tenement houses remains, Herr Schuschnigg cannot win the friendship of the Austrian workers. But he could win their toleration, and their support against the Nazis.

To do this he would not necessarlly have to restore complete parliamentary democracy. It would be sufficient to release the imprisoned Socialists, to permit

They must be encouraged to come to terms with the Socialists.

HE combined power of the Socialist workers and the Christian Socialist farmers would range Austria in the line of the democratic States of Europe.

It might make the democratic group sufficiently strong to discourage Hitler or Mussolini from attacking it.

The next few months in Austria promise to be a time of wavering indecision. During that time the fate of Austria will hang in an uneasy balance. When it does take a decisive turn, that turn may be decisive for the fate of Chicago, blanked the Yankees in their first game, five to nothing, on eleven hits, Lyons keeping the Yannine hits well apart. New York won the second five to four, though the White Sox hit nine eight times and the Yankees had the only error.

Detroit gained a little on the lenders by whipping the Athle seven to two, Rogelt's homer being one of the Tigers twelve hits. Philadelphia hit eight, Puccinelli giving them a homer.

St. Louis bested Washington, four to three, with nine hits to six, and Cleveland took Boston into camp and won five to two, Averill contributing a home run, Indians hit eleven to Boston's four .- Reuter.

VARSITY TREES DAMAGED

SMART PUNISHMENT ORDERED

Arrested on the complaint of Sir William Hornell, Vice-Chancellor of the University, Lau Wu, 29, un-employed, was charged before Mr. C. B. Burgess at the Central Magistracy to-day with having damaged trees at the University.

Sgt. Sullivan said that the Vice-Chancellor had made several complaints regarding the damaging of trees and as a result a watch was kept on the grounds. Lau was seen breaking trees down on Friday but was not apprehended. He returned on Saturday and was caught by an Indian guard while stripping a tree. The damage to the trees was estimated at $30.

A fine of $50, in default, six weeks in prison, was imposed.

RAIN AT LAST IN THIRSTING WEST

740 KILLED BY U.S. HEAT WAVE

New York, July 12. Rain in the mid-West and thunder showers in the East marked the beginning of the end of the month-long drought and heat wave which have been responsible for 84 deaths in New York City and 740 throughout the nation since July 1.

The highest temperature in New York City was 91 in the shade, but in the West the temperature seared to

ANSWER TO PRAYERS

Chicago, July 12. Like the answer to the prayers said in little churches throughout the two Dakotas, clouds loaded with rain drifted neross the north-west to-day and brought dife-giving moisture to the fringes of the drought-country.

Dome Lake, Wyoming, had 1.07 nches of rain and Williston, North Dakota, a good shower. It also rained in parts of Iowa and eastern Nebraska, although the hour of showers which brought such thanksgiving also reminded the West that almost 1,000 had died as a result of the heat wave and that erop and cattle losses were estimated at $400,000,000.

Many Dakota farmers are selling their homes and machinery and abandoning the parched earth.

STILL NO RAIN

Meanwhile the Mississippi Valley is without rain and Iowa's corn beginning to suffer. Early this afternoon the températures were up to a hundred-odd degrees in some parts, though scattered clouds gave hope of rain by Monday.

ASSAULTED

THROWN IN HARBOUR BY U.S. SEAMAN

An American sailor, A. C. Phillips, from the U.S.S. Tulsa, appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with having assaulted Leung Kamsing, coxswain of motor boat 3, of the Wanchai Praya, by striking him on the head with a bottle and throwing him into the harbour.

The complainant stated that on July 6, at about 10.30 at night, the defendant and another sailor boarded his motor boat and requested to be taken back to the Tulsa. The coxswain agreed and was about to start the engine when the defendant came up behind him and struck him on the head with a bottle, after which hewas thrown into the sea. He swam ashore and reported to the No. 2 Police Station, from where he was removed to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from abrasions on the upper and lower lip, a scalp wound and cut on the thumb.

Loung Fok, a boy foki of the coxswain, corroborated the complainant's statements, adding that defendant jumped in after the com-plainant and attempted to catch him in the water. He was unsuccessful and was helped ashore by his com-

Asked by Mr. Schofield whether he had anything to say for himself, defendant said he could not account for what had happened and that he must have been out of his mind to have done such a thing.
Mr. Schofield ordered the defendant to pay $10 compensation to the complainant and also fined him $100. ..

SUPPORT FROM BIG STATES

New York, July 12. Mr. Alfred M., Landon, the Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States, would be elected by a majority of thirteen electoral college votes over the Democrat, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, if the election was held to-day, accord-ing to the result of a nation-wide etraw voto conducted by the Institute of Public Opinion and published by the New York Herald-Tribune to-day,

The poll was conducted between June 18 and July 8 and shows that Mr. Landon, Governor of Kansas, would have 272 electoral college votes and Mr. Roosevelt 259.

Mr. Landon would have an actual minority popular vote, however. Ho would carry only twenty-one of the forty-eight states, but those credited to him inclue New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois, the three states with the largest electoral college representation.—Reuter.

Press opinion is divided. The Morning Post says there is obviously more than meets the eye in the agreement and it would not be surprising if there should be a tendency to look this gift horse very thoroughly in the

The Daily Mail maintains that the sanctionist Front had the inevitable result of throwing Italy into the arms of Germany. "There must be no more suicidal meddling with affairs remote from our interests," it says. The paper urges a closer Anglo-German understanding.

The Daily Express welcomes the agreement as a movement in the direction of the pacification of Europe, relleving Britain of many of her obliga-

The Daily Herald says on the surface it is a good thing, but adds that judgment must be reserved until the world can see more clearly what is below the surface.

A similar view is held by the News Chronicle, which feels Europe may accept this gift horse but, agreeing with the Post, must look it squarely in the mouth. One of these days if may bite, it warns.

"We must wait," advises the Daily Telegraph, "to be sure that what is hailed as the extinction of a volcano does not mean the opening of a new crater elsewhere."

Hitler Congratulated

The Times frankly welcomes the agreement, for which it says Herr Hitler is to be congratulated whatever the immediate motive or ultimate intention. The agreement cannot but help to stabilise and pacify Central Europe and improve its economic conditions, paving the way for rapprochement and settlement between the two main branches of the German race.
